

MAYSVILLE, - - - OCT. 27

FOR PRESIDENT,

GEORGE B. McCLELLAN,
OF NEW JERSEY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

GEORGE H. PENDLETON,
OF OHIO.The Board of Trade and Gov. Bramlette

The Board of Trade at Maysville, is believed to consist of Davy Clarke alone, and not of any greater number of persons. The gentlemen who were originally appointed to the disreputable service of setting as spies upon the loyalty of their neighbors, and granting them permits to trade, or not, as the Board chose, became alarmed at the retribution they were invoking, and very speedily vacated their places. No one in this community has yet had the courage to avow himself the successor of either one of the gentlemen who thus backed out from a disgraceful position, and Davy Clarke, who styles himself Secretary, has the glory all to himself, of doing the dirty, disreputable work. In the arrogance of his usurped power, he has not yet interfered with the right of a merchant to give away his stock, though he forbids them to sell, or us to buy; and we are (no thanks to him), again permitted through the kindness of a noble hearted friend, who gave us the paper, to issue another number of the Bulletin. The time is speedily hastening when such minions of corrupt power will not be able to interfere with our business—when the prejudices and malignancy of such narrow minded bigots and paid pimps of a corrupt administration, will be powerless to harm.—When McClellan takes his seat in the White House at Washington, he surely will do in March next, it will be the signal for such creatures to make faster time, than they have ever yet done in running from the rebels.

Gov. Bramlette well described this class of men in his noble speech at the Court House on Saturday night last. He said they were the corrupt minions of despotism, who, for the sake of the greenbacks they received, engaged in the dishonorable service of setting in secret upon the loyalty of better men than themselves; that though many of their neighbors had paid the government tax for a license to trade, and thereby had a right under the law of Congress, and a solemn contract with the government, to do so, these men in defiance of law and at the bidding of their masters, undertake to pre-were a cowardly set, willing to remain at home to persecute their neighbors, but not willing to do as he had done, take up arms and fight the foe; and that when ever a rumor reached the place that the rebels were anywhere within fifty miles of them, they were the first to take to their heels and cross the Ohio River, instead of remaining to defend their homes.

Why every Democrat in Kentucky should Vote for McClellan.

The Democrats of Kentucky from the beginning, have been opposed to the War.—They never believed that the Union could be restored by coercion or subjugation, and thousands of men throughout the loyal States, who for sometime thought differently, now agree with them, and are uniting in a hearty effort to try the instrumentalities of peaceful negotiations. If McClellan is elected President, all the arts of statesmanship will be resorted to and exhausted, in the effort to secure a settlement of our troubles without further bloodshed; and when in the history of the world have these agencies, when sincerely and wisely adopted, ever failed to secure peace. If we want peace, then we must elect McClellan, for no man is idiot enough to believe that Mr. Lincoln will ever conquer a peace by continuing the war.

But, if the Democrats refuse to vote for McClellan, remain passive, and take no part in the coming election, will they not make themselves responsible for all the acts of Mr. Lincoln? Will not his re-election be an unequivocal endorsement of all his usurpations of power, his violations of the constitution and laws, and outrages upon the rights, the liberties, the lives and the property of the people? Most assuredly, if he is re-elected, he will consider himself as being indemnified by the people, against responsibility for all his wanton acts of tyranny, his usurpations of power, and disregard of the rights and liberty of the citizen, and will feel licensed to test still further the forbearance of a people outraged almost beyond endurance. If by the indifference of the democrats—by their neglect to vote—he should beat Gen. McClellan, the responsibility will be upon them, not only for the indemnity given for the past, but for the crimes against liberty which he may commit in the future. In God's name then, if you would avoid such responsibility, we conjure you to go to the polls,—go, if there be a legion of devils to resist you—and vote against Lincoln and for McClellan.

The men in Kentucky, who are subservient enough to the wicked men in power, to sustain by their votes the abolition candidates for the Presidency, are but a miserable handful; and but for the countenance they receive from the administration, would be not other and weighty reasons why every democrat should vote, it is enough that their going to the polls will demonstrate the great strength of the real friends of the country, and the utter insignificance of the faction, who sustained by the corrupt power of the administration, are doing all the harm with which Kentucky is now afflicted.

Let us show our strength and their weakness. The friends of McClellan, if they will, can give a majority in every county in the State. This glorious result the democracy of Kentucky have it perfectly in their power to accomplish. Then let every man put his hand to the work, and Lincolnism will have an abiding place in our beloved State no more forever.

The Maysville (Ky.) Bulletin comes to us this week in a very condensed form, and printed on brown wrapping paper, furnished by a friend. It presents the appearance of a paper printed in Dixie and not the free land in which we in Kentucky inhabit. It is well known Gen. Burbridge has issued stringent orders relating trade, and the petty Board who has the authority at that city to grant permits has seen fit to refuse one to the proprietors of the Bulletin to enable them to secure white paper from Cincinnati for their purpose—thus to all intents and purposes suppressing it. The Bulletin was one of the spiciest papers that came to our office, and earnest in the support of McClellan and Pendleton, which we suppose is the grave offense they have committed to debar them from the rights which every citizen is entitled. A more contemptible trick, practiced by a set of men possessed of a "little brief authority," we have never known recorded, even in this wonderful age. Owensboro Monitor.

Massachusetts Infamy.

This hot bed of abolitionism, has filled her quota in the army, by sending agents to Germany, and beguiling large numbers of men from there, under pretence that they are to be employed in labor, but who upon their arrival in Massachusetts are hurried into the army to fight. The New York Express learns from authentic sources, that about two hundred and fifty of these deceived Germans, recently at Harper's Ferry refused to fight under Massachusetts, protesting that they had been engaged to work not to fight. They were willing to go into New York regiments, but would not serve in those of Massachusetts. They were sent last week as prisoners of war to a Fort at Winchester, there to be shot down probably as mutineers by our forces, or as enemies by the rebels.

What could be more infamous than this fraudulent mode adopted by Massachusetts of screening her own pestiferous abolition population, from service in the war she has provoked; and what could be more cruel to the poor Germans than the deceit by which they have been beguiled from Fatherland.
